Dr. Clarence A. Weaver, a local physician, recently applied to the District Commissioners for a police and fire badge, such as permits the holder to pass the police and fire lines in times of fire or emergency. so he could render any professional service should such be needed. The application was referred to Major Sylvester, the chief of police, who has reported to the Com-missioners that, while it is quite important missioners that, while it is quite important at times that a professional man be at hand to render service, yet if the request of Dr. Weaver should be granted similar requests would naturally follow, and he therefore cannot see how it could be done consistently. The Commissioners have approved the position of the chief of police, and will refuse to grant Dr. Weaver's request.

AN OLD COLONIAL MANNON SITUATED NEAR LAUREL, IN PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY, MARYLAND, a short distance from Washington, on the Baltis more and Ohlo railroad. The place, which was the home of the Snowdens for generations, is rich in historic incident and tradition. It is said that Washington frequently rested there on his journeys from Mount Vernon to Annapolis, and the room in which be slept is still remembered. The house, said to have been built about 1720, of bricks brought from England, is on an elevation overlooking terraced gardens and between the description of which are said to be over one hundred years old, and beautiful mendows, sloping gently to the Paturent; projecting wings add to its pitcuresque beauty. Near the house is a forest of giant trees, principally oaks. The rooms of the house are large, numerous and well appointed. The stables and barns are convenient. The property comprises about 220 acres, and will be sold to close an estate. Stock, farming implements, carpets and some furniture will be sold with the
